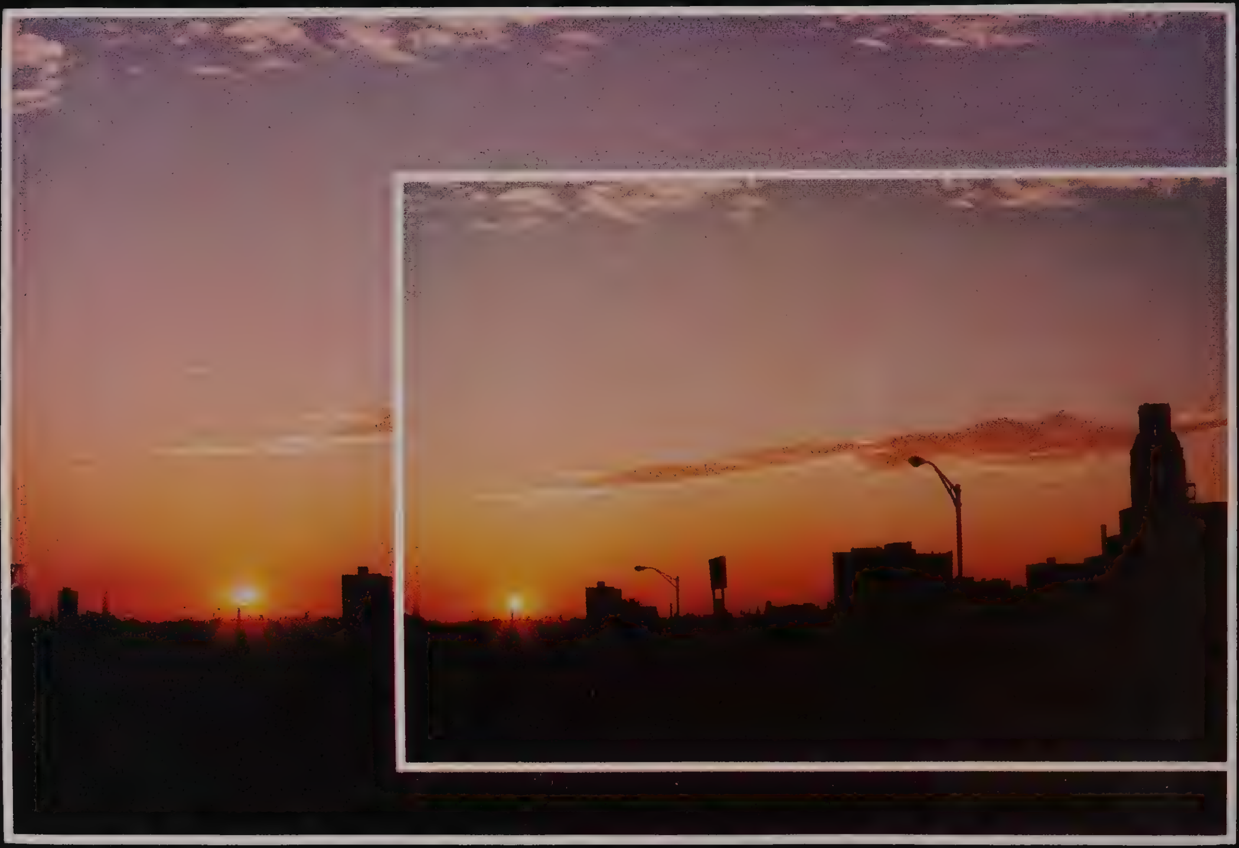
All We Have Done Is All That Is Left,

For Us, Memories . . .



For the past 25 years, a seed has matured into a sturdy tree in the midst of a decaying city—an oak by the name of Rutgers University.

From its original buildings along Penn Street to an ultra-modern 20 acre campus, the Camden College of Arts and Sciences has grown into an integral part of one of the world's foremost institutions.

The next few years hold even more promise to Rutgers-Camden with the development of housing and more services to benefit over 5,000 students who call Rutgers their Alma Mater.

Through it all, dark or bright, cold or warm, Rutgers Mneme has documented this change. In this, our 25th year, we have grown to be one of the oldest organizations here.

A lot of important events have occurred here over the past quarter century with an unlimited number set to happen in the near future.

Some will only remember them as events, others as memories. As long as we are around, we will always record significant events to preserve for future memories.

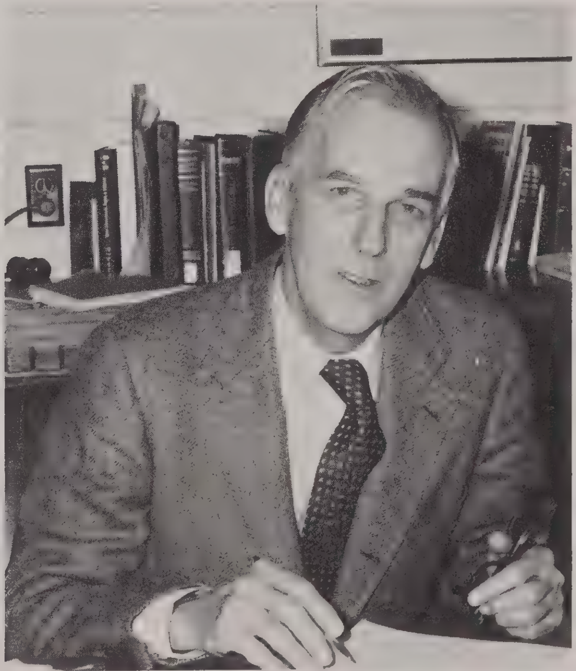
Dean Gordon



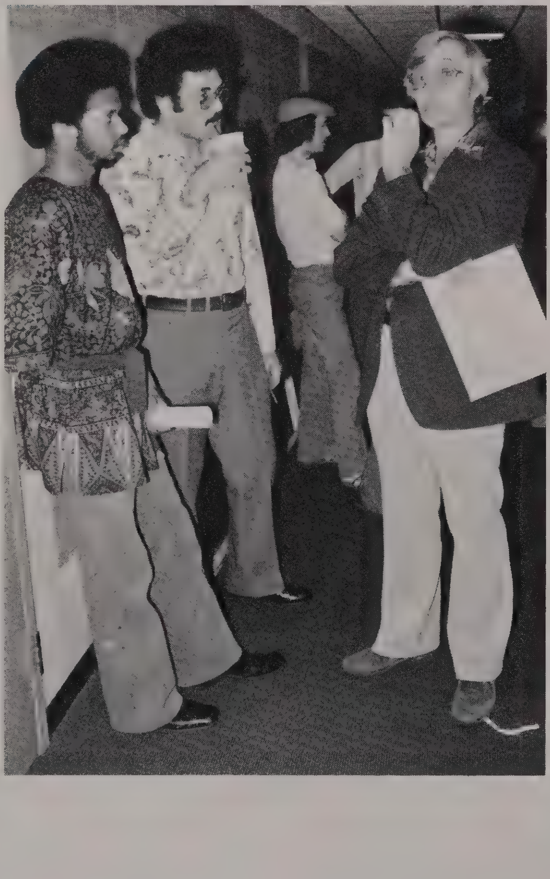
Dean Fairbanks

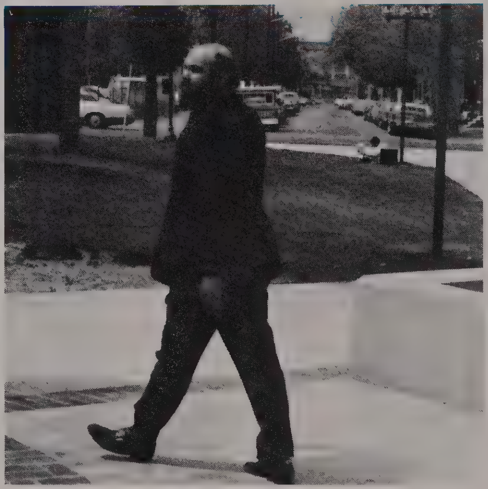
Dr. Walter K. Gordon, Dean of the College, is an individual committed to improving the status of Rutgers-Camden within the university system. Dean Russell Fairbanks is Provost for the Camden campus and the Law School Dean.

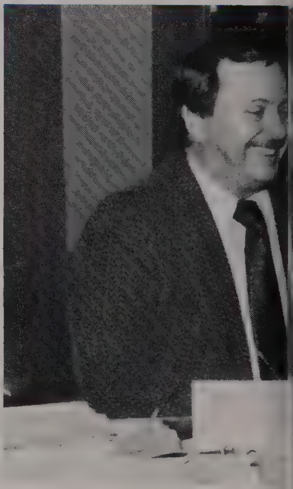
Barry Millett, Dean of Students

Arthur Brewin, Assistant Dean of College

A unique aspect of Rutgers-Camden is the availability of its Deans. Unlike most institutions of higher learning, the administrative leaders of RUCCAS are available almost anytime, when needed, whether it be a personal problem or a scholastic one.







Robert Smith, Associate Dean of College

Edward Mauger, Asst. Dean of College, Director of Summer Session and Weekend College

Berjoohy Haigazian, Associate Dean of Students, Counselor for Foreign Students

Instead of hiding behind thick walls and impersonal secretaries, they can be found walking around campus, or caught in the tavern enjoying a cold pop like the rest of us.

Field Hockey

Being only in their second season, the Women's Field Hockey team played well and were able to beat teams like Monmouth and Stockton. The girls showed much interest and cooperation, and Coach Chris Smith gave the team incentive and guidance in displaying their skills on the field. Kathy Muir, the team's leading scorer, and Nancy DeCristofor, this year's MVP, will provide the team with some stability for the following season.

Players display their joy over a goal.

This year's Soccer team was the best in the team's history. Under Coach Phillips, a winner of the Coach of the Year award, the Pioneers compiled a 8-4-1 record. They captured the District 19 and Area 7 titles and went on to place 5th in the NAIA finals in Alabama. Overall the team placed 6th in the nation with a remarkable 11-6-1 record. Though the team is loosing 11 starters Coach Phillips has realistic hopes to take his team back to Alabama, where the NAIA finals will again be held.

Coach Smothers and team Captains Donnie Crosby and Kels Macray.

Marvin Young takes a 12 footer.

The 77-78 season for the basketball team was a very rewarding, yet somewhat disappointing season. The rewards came in the form of Daniel Rucker who was 25th in the nation in scoring, Henry Hall who was 13th in the nation in rebounding, leaper Marvin Young, and scoring machine Eddie Daniel. Along with co-captains Kels McCray and Donnie Crosby this young team put together an impressive 18-8 season.

Crosby fires from the corner for two.

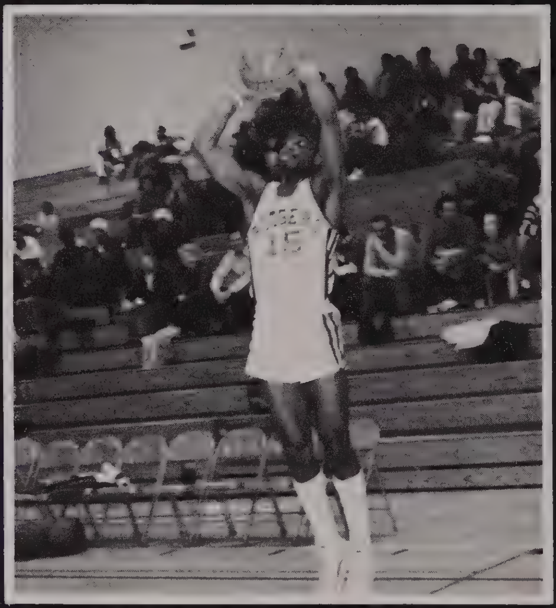
A jump ball and the game is under way.

Smothers gives his team a pep talk prior to the start.

Freshman center Henry Hall takes a hook shot in traffic.

Rutgers take a break to slow down the pace.

Young and Rucker gave the Pioneers the one two punch they needed.



Kels takes aim just before firing.

The team's disappointment came when they were denied a spot in the district championship, despite the 18-8 record. However, the team is young and optimistic, and with any new additions Coach Smothers can make, one can look forward to seeing the Pioneers in the playoffs next year.

Hall soars above opponent to take control of the tap.

It's difficult going through a season without winning all but the last game, and that one by the smallest of margins. It's frustrating and disappointing but the girls deserve credit for sticking with it. The record may indicate a loosing season but the girls are not loosers, because they never quit.

Akers wasted no time on his move.

The Wrestling team did not have a remarkable season, but they won the District 19 Championship. Nine of the wrestlers captured 3rd place or better, and four went on to the Nationals, where they unfortunately dropped their first match. The team is loosing six members to graduation, but with the young talent coming up Coach Neiman can look to another championship season.

Chase, Bartholomew, Hazel and Petrillo all captured first place in the districts.

This year's ice hockey team was the best in the club's history. They compiled an 8-5 record beating teams such as Drexel, Temple, and Glassboro twice and outscored the opposition 91-39. Goaltending, along with a potent offense, earned the Pioneers a respectable name in South Jersey. Goalies Don Roth, (2.83 G.A.A. 4-2) and Jim Clancy (2.85 Avg 4-3) were brilliant in the nets. The future looks good for the hockey club; maybe one day they will become part of the Varsity Program and represent the school in intercollegiate competition.

The lifeblood of any university or college, from the aspect of student services, has traditionally been the governing body. This year's Congress faced many difficult situations, but nevertheless acted as a unit to inform, educate, and serve the students without favor to one particular group.

CONGRESS

1. Joanne Hermann, our editor-in chief this year, has been with the MNEME for three years. She was voted the most valuable staff member for 1977 and 1978.
2. The 1979 editor-in chief, Mike Kernan, has worked on the yearbook for three years. Mike was editor of the activities section for this yearbook.
3. Joe Weston has been a great help to the yearbook by doing the "Year in Review" section of the book. Though, it was Joe's only year on the staff, he pulled his section off well.
4. Marian Mostieg is a new comer to the staff also. But, if you look through the senior section you will see that her hard work paid off. Marian will be next years Co-Layout Editor and Business Editor.
5. We've drafted alot of help from the Gleaner this year and Lou Rivera is a perfect example of this. Lou has done a fine job with the sports section and hopefully he will co-edit the section next year.
6. Stan Kernan has been with the staff for two years now. This year Stan was the Layout Editor and will be back next year to be Co-Layout Editor and Co-Copy Editor.

7. Dave Berkowitz was on the copy staff of the NMEME. He's livened the office more than once with his funny captions for pictures.

8. Our Copy Editor for this book was John Barna. Since the book tradionally does not have much copy, John was able to give some time towards the MNEME while he worked on the Gleaner.

9. Lloyd Gorcey has been with the staff for a few years. Last year Lloyd was Ad Manager and this year he was Business Manager. The staff wishes him luck in '79 with Student Congress.

10. Our Assistant Editor for this year was Bill Yantis (Quantis). Bill has been on the staff for three previous years, mostly working with photography.

11. Marek Rykala was last year's photography editor and will be the 1979 editor too. Marek's work is also on exhibit in the MNEME office gallery.

12. Nancy Lapas has contributed to our photography staff for the past couple of years. Her quality work has helped tremendously in filling these pages.

13. Pete Ortiz and Mike Murry were both new comers to the photography staff. They got around alot to take campus scenes and sports action shots. Hopefully Pete and Mike will be back again next year.

15. Tony Scafedi has been around a couple of years on the photography staff. He contributed for the Fall semester then transferred for the spring. Thank you Tony.

16. Pictured in the group shot in the second row on the right is Russ Novak. Though we have not used much art this year, when we needed it Russ came through.

17. Not pictured is Alice Rohem. Alice is a transfer student from Douglass College. She has contributed to the layout section of the book and will be on next year's staff.

Quintessence

Quintessence is the Art-Literary magazine published by students at Rutgers-Camden. An art committee and a literary committee each under the direction of its own editor is supervised by an editor-in-chief. There is an issue printed in the Fall and one in the Spring. Quintessence serves to promote creativity among students.

When not staging plays, this group of drama students can be seen building sets and designing costumes for their next production. Each season, several theatrical favorites are presented by this talented bunch.

History Association

Another campus organization "re-born" through student involvement was the History Association. They conducted a massive rating of the department's professors during the spring semester. All were charted and rated by the group, with the results published in several mediums to insure student knowledge of the department.

Political Science Society

Members are (L to R), John Makowski, Abdul-Bengora, Yvonne Payton, Tom Tompkins, Wico Van Genderen, Lucinda Harrison, Fred Schuck, Vera Mc Coy.

A highly active organization this year was the Political Science Society. Besides sponsoring student-faculty debates and parties for the student body, the Poli Sci sponsored a trip to Washington in the spring of '77. While in Washington, the students met with Federal District Court Judge George Hart and "lame duck" Senator Clifford Case.

Psi Chi, the National Honor Society for Psychology, permits students to become actively involved in their field of study. Highlights of this year's activity was a trip to the American Psychological Association in Washington.

SPANISH
CLUB
FIESTA

Fiesta time has never been so enjoyable as the annual flings thrown by this multi-lateral group. Several major functions including field trips, speakers, and open house and their annual spring fiesta makes this group one of the more popular ones on campus.

After years of inactivity, the Latin American Student Organization emerged on campus as one of the year's brightest groups. Two highly successful cultural awareness festivals and several other activities informed and entertained the students in a unique way.

L.A. S. O.

Martial Arts Club

Felix Garcia-President, Michael Brown-Vice-President, Kap Halloway-Secretary, Verne Ellis-Treasurer

Kung-Fu Fighting became a hit again at Rutgers the past year as many students joined the newly established club and participated in the ancient Asian art. The class size reached the point where sessions had to be conducted two nights a week.

Black Student Union

Promoting black cultural activities is the function of this organization. During the past year, several dances, speakers, and presentations were held. This was capped by black history month activities in February.

English Society

Members are (L to R), P. Engime (Sec.), B. Mc Peak (V. Pres.), H. De Luca (Treas.), M. Lario (Pres.), C. Bazan, M. Houston.

Besides the annual Walt Whitman Day festivities, the ESO is responsible for several of the best parties ever thrown by a student group. Small but active, the ESO presented several speakers to the campus the past year, in addition to wine and cheese receptions and the Walt Whitman celebration.

Aviation Club

Wes Tessey, June Ball, Scott Ball, Tim Schiller, Ellen Lovejoy

A new organization to the campus was the Aviation Club. The club was formed to promote student interest in the exciting aspects of Aviation. Interest zoomed high when members participated in short distance flights to surrounding airfields.

Nurses Club

The Student Nurses Association, which was formed last year, is open to all students. The group sponsors various health care programs such as blood pressure screening, and is aware of the developments in the nursing profession. This year they held a job fair in conjunction with the Placement Office for students interested in current job opportunities. Other activities include blood drives in support of the Red Cross and a cake and candy sale.

RUTGERS
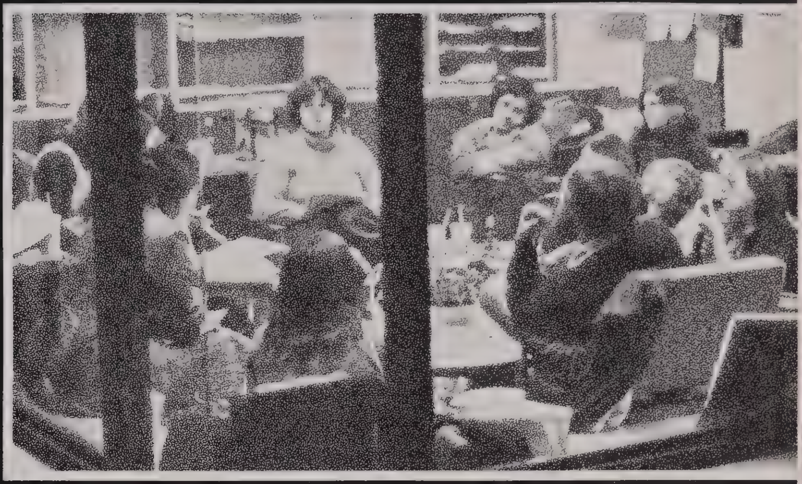
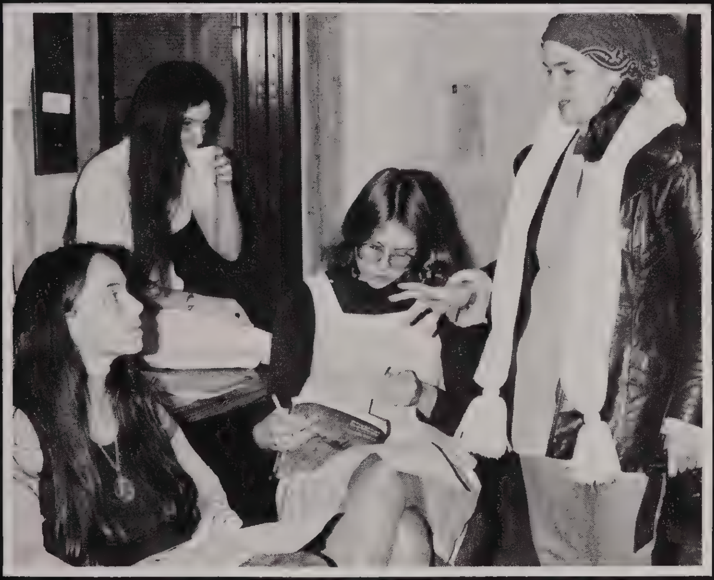
CENTER





A long time member of the Camden Campus is the Women's Center which is located on the main floor of the Law Building. The Women's Center is available to any student, male or female, and will lend a helping hand to those who need it.

Student Health Advisory Committee

The Student Health Advisory Committee has been a long existing organization at Rutgers. They have remained anonymous until this year when SHAC presented a constitution for approval by Student Congress. SHAC has worked for the new location of the Student Health Center at 5th and Cooper Streets. They have also obtained the services of a full-time doctor.

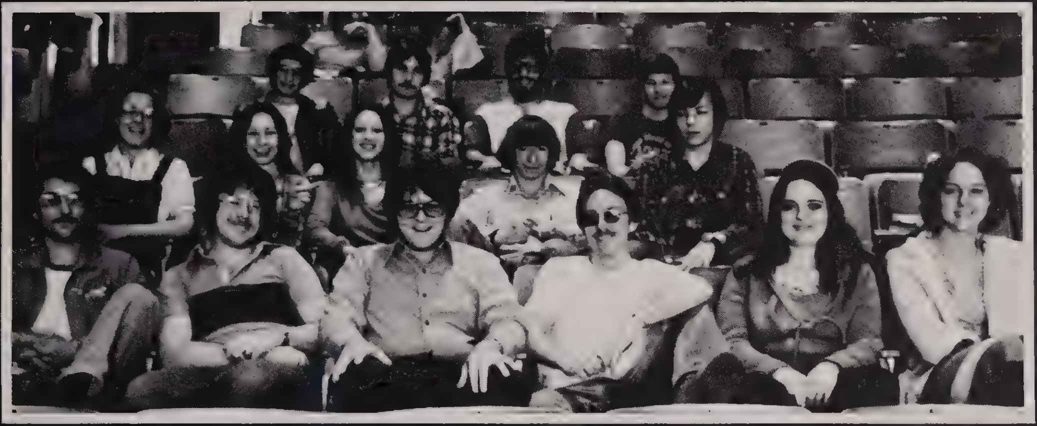
Physics Club

Members are (L to R), B. August, S. Greg, A. Tabur, S. Staines, J. La Pata, Dr. F. Blood, J. Segal, P. Donato, B. Swift, G. Marzinski, M. Manieri.

The Physics Club is an active organization which tries to promote student interest in the world of physics. The club also enables the Physics major to become more involved in his or her field of study.

Arranging films and key speakers, the American Chemical Society helps to keep the Camden Campus informed in the matters of Science. The main event of the year, however, is the annual weekend canoe trip, which proves that they don't have ALL their fun in lab.

American Chemical Society



Members are: Wayne Howitz, Fran, Hank Glover, Sharon, Leslie-Ann White, Karen Witters, Tom Buenzle, Mike Wright, Mike, Jeff Grant, Len Purzycki (President), John Bertagnolli (Vice-President), Patti Davies, Marian Mosteig (Secretary-Treasurer).

P.I.R.G.

The local "Nader's Raiders" on campus, PIRG, conducted a streamwalk of the Cooper River in addition to several other consumer-oriented activities during the year. In their streamwalk, PIRG members noted drainage pipes besides an area clean-up as part of their overall concern for others.

Once again, the annual blood drive sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Sorority Council (IFSC) was a success with 90 pints donated to benefit the area Red Cross. Each year the drive has become more successful, with the entire campus population, not just the Greek Houses, getting involved.

Another IFSC-sponsored event was its annual "Party Little" for children of the Cooper-Grant community. A hundred youths were treated to an old fashioned Christmas, complete with gifts, games and Santa, alias Mike Brown.

Sir Michael Redgrave, A Cannes Film Festival Award winner and Oscar nominee, starred in a performance of extracts from Shakespeare's plays and sonnets. Also during September, local Hispanic groups held an hour-long demonstration on the 19th, protesting the substitution of Professor Evita Puerta with Dr. Shirley Weber as Director of the Graduate Division of the Social Work Department. The groups asserted that racial discrimination was involved. The new Cushman scooter bought by Campus Patrol was the recipient of many double takes by students. Another successful film marathon took place in the fall with ten classic comedy flicks shown for the mere pittence of $1. Over 600 students came to see Blazing Saddles, Murder By Death and Young Frankenstein.

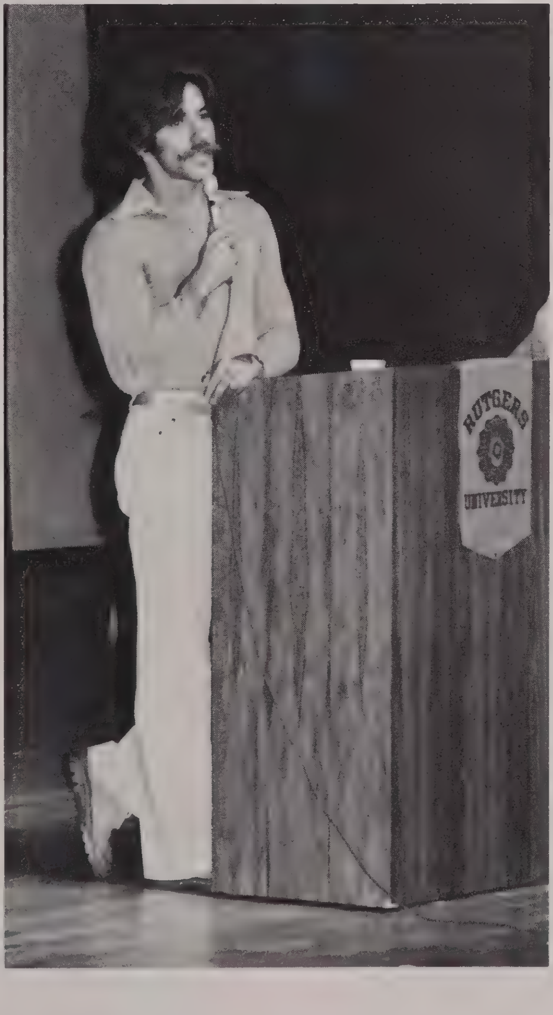
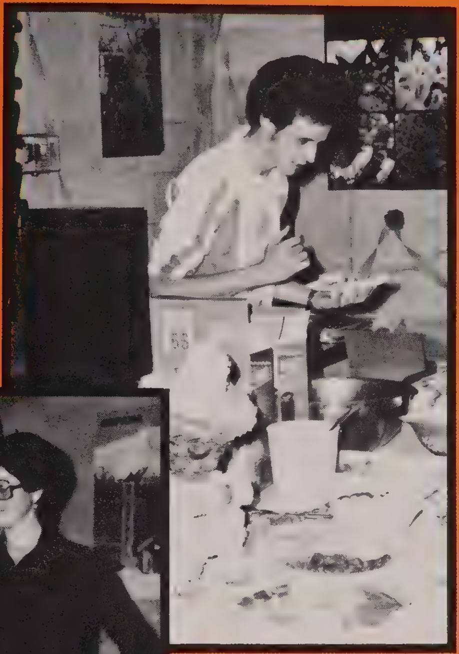
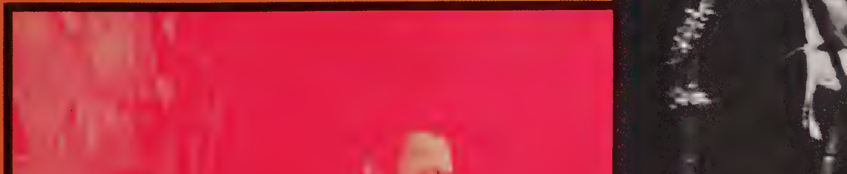
October



Rhythm and blues songstress Patti LaBelle dazzled a Fine Arts Theatre crowd on the 7th while dancing and bouncing on the stage. In what was basically a warm-up show for her upcoming tour, Patte wowed the audience with her music. A bomb threat, however, put a damper on the show by causing the evacuation of 450 people from the Theatre. ABC newsman Geraldo Rivera rapped with students on the 11th about how he got where he is today. His talk covered his entire career, including his days as a radical lawyer and part-time political activist.

Students Masquerade At Month's End

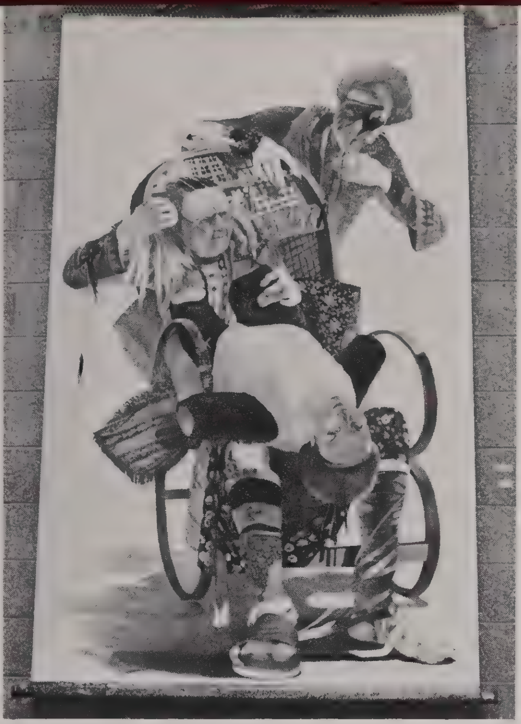


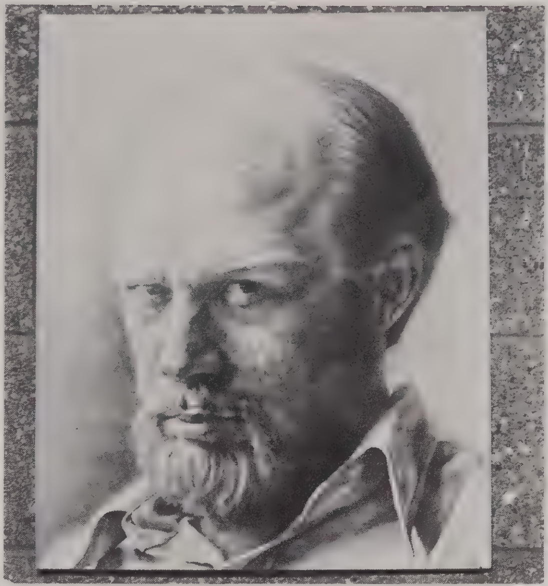


Seafood fanatic Brian Makowski revived an old college tradition, goldfish swallowing, when he devoured five of the golden critters in front of a College Center audience. The performance of Arthur Miller's play, "A View From The Bridge" generated box office success unprecedented at Rutgers-Camden. The lead male in the show, Ken Hoerauf, played Eddie—a man who carries an obsession to the limit. Other entertainment during October included a Spanish Fiesta, where students ate, danced, and learned a little about the Spanish culture.

One of November's bigger successes was the Cultural Awareness Festival sponsored by the Latin American Student Organization (LASO). They raised $1500 more from the event than Student Congress subsidized. Unsurprizingly, LASO threw a repeat performance in March. The Veterans Association once again extended its hands to the campus last November with one of its regular parties. And as usual, no one left disappointed.

November





The designs pictured were among the 125 works on display in the National Drawing Exhibition '77, held here in November. $5000 in prizes were awarded to the talented artists. The month saw more demolition of buildings around the campus as the University prepared for possible expansion. The Martial Arts class taught weekly by Mr. Shin received its club membership during November. One of the hottest events to occur was the theft of copies of the Rutgers Gleaner, containing a controversial cartoon. As a result of this, LASO, BSU, and the Association of Rutgers Women staged a "Rally for Rights" to air their grievances against what they called "the University's policy of racism and sexism."

The Inter-Fraternity-Sorority Council was busy the month of December. They sponsored "Party Little", a Christmas party for the children of the Cooper Grant community, a tradition at Rutgers. The annual Blood Drive was also held, which once again proved to be a success. Student Congress Special Elections, which were set up to replace two vacancies, brought Senator James Harper and Representative-at-Large Felix Garcia into the Congress. And of course no one can think of December without thinking of FINALS!

JANUARY

The closing of the Used Book Store motivated students to organize a Student Book Exchange, which succeeded in helping students reduce book costs. The service marked a first for RUC-CAS. Another first was the offical cancellation of classes. A harsh winter resulted in the re-establishment of a school closing number as well as severing power lines and causing water damage.

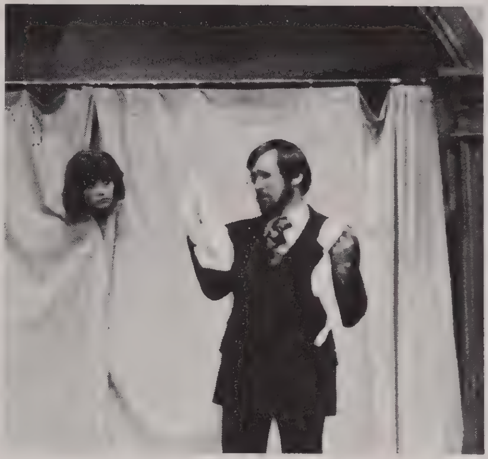
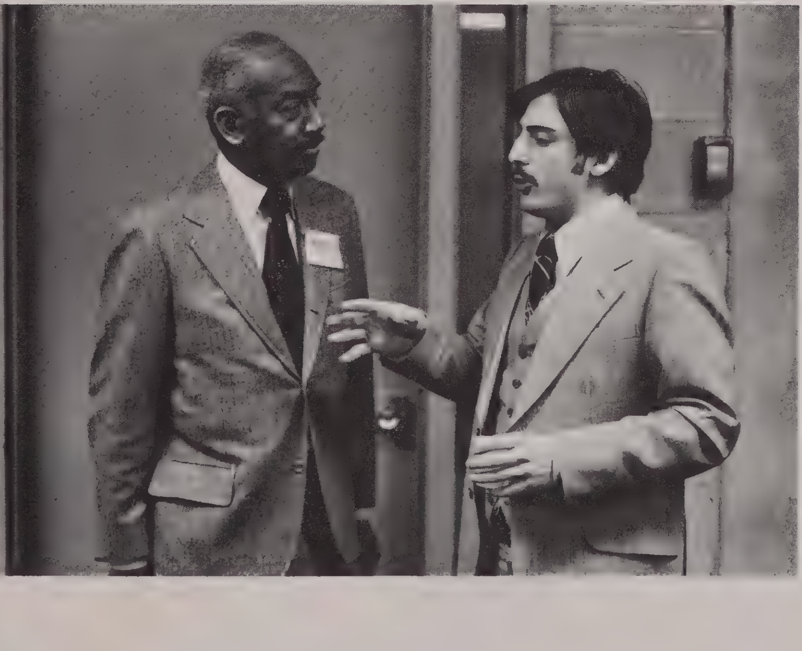
FEBRUARY

Concern over student evaluations of the faculty materialized into a Student Congress sponsored petition that urged publicized evaluations for all courses. Efforts were rewarded when both the History and English departments conducted evaluations of their faculty.

Ralph Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, stole the show in February by delivering a rousing and enlightening talk about civil rights. Looked upon by many as another Dr. Martin Luther King, Abernathy was greeted warmly by many students.

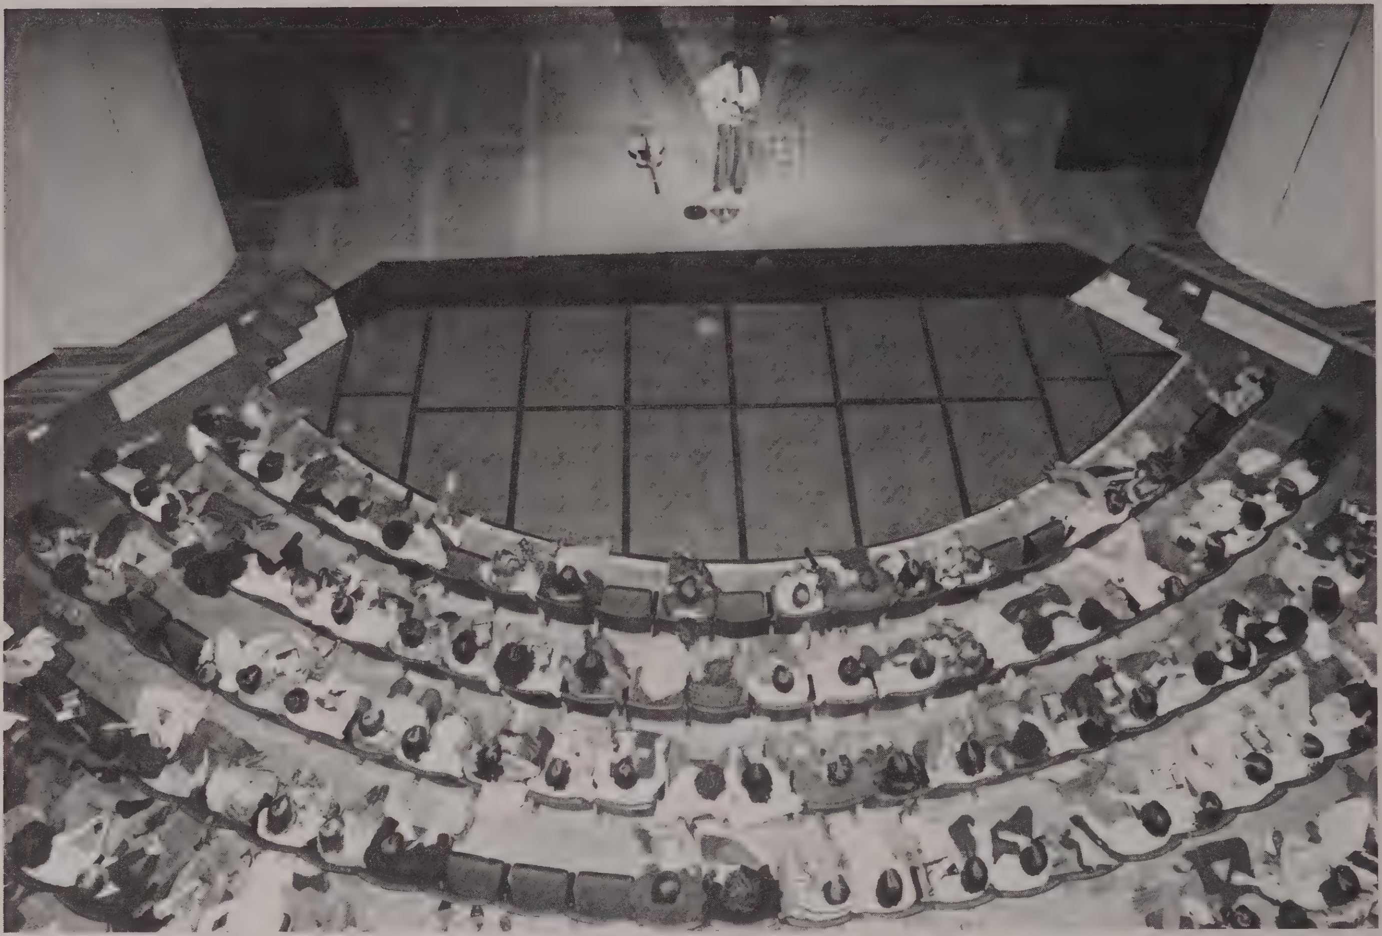




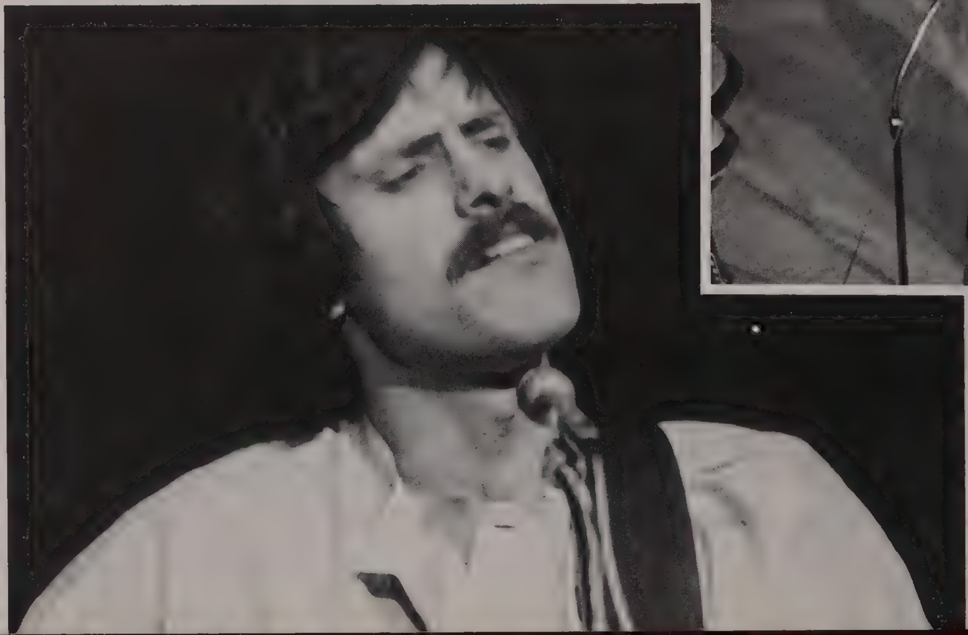
MARCH

Contrary to what Rutgers Gleaner's annual joke issue would have you believe, the Middle States Association (MSA) reported that their overall reaction to the Rutgers campus here was "favorable." The evaluation team visited for three days in March to provide an open forum for students to voice their opinions and state their grievances.

The Theatre Arts second production of the year, "What The Butler Saw," proved to be an hilarious success. The jumble of comical misunderstandings started when a psychiatrist's wife walks in on her husband as he inspects the bare qualifications of his secretary-to-be.



Noted singer, guitarist, and songwriter Tom Chapin highlighted March's entertainment agenda with a first class, one-man performance. The audience clapped, snapped, and sung to Tom's mix of ballads and folk.



APRIL

April brought on another first for Student Congress—a GAAO membership drive. Elections are also held in April, and the hotly contested battle for the Presidency netted Lloyd Gorcey the winner by a 2-1 margin.

April saw another Theatre Arts production—'The Imaginary Invalid." A satirical success, the play involved a hypochondriac who tried controlling everyone's life, but couldn't even handle his own.

MAY

Soccer forward Wordsworth George was presented with an award commemorating his accomplishments by coach George Phillips during the annual Sports Banquet---one of numerous trophies awarded that evening.
A demonstration supporting student input into the faculty tenure procedure was sponsored by the Student Congress. Several hundred students and faculty turned out in support . . . . .
A ballet class took advantage of the beautiful spring weather and performed their routines outdoors.

A day that many never believed would come occured on a gloomy Sunday in May when commencements were held and the Seniors became former students.

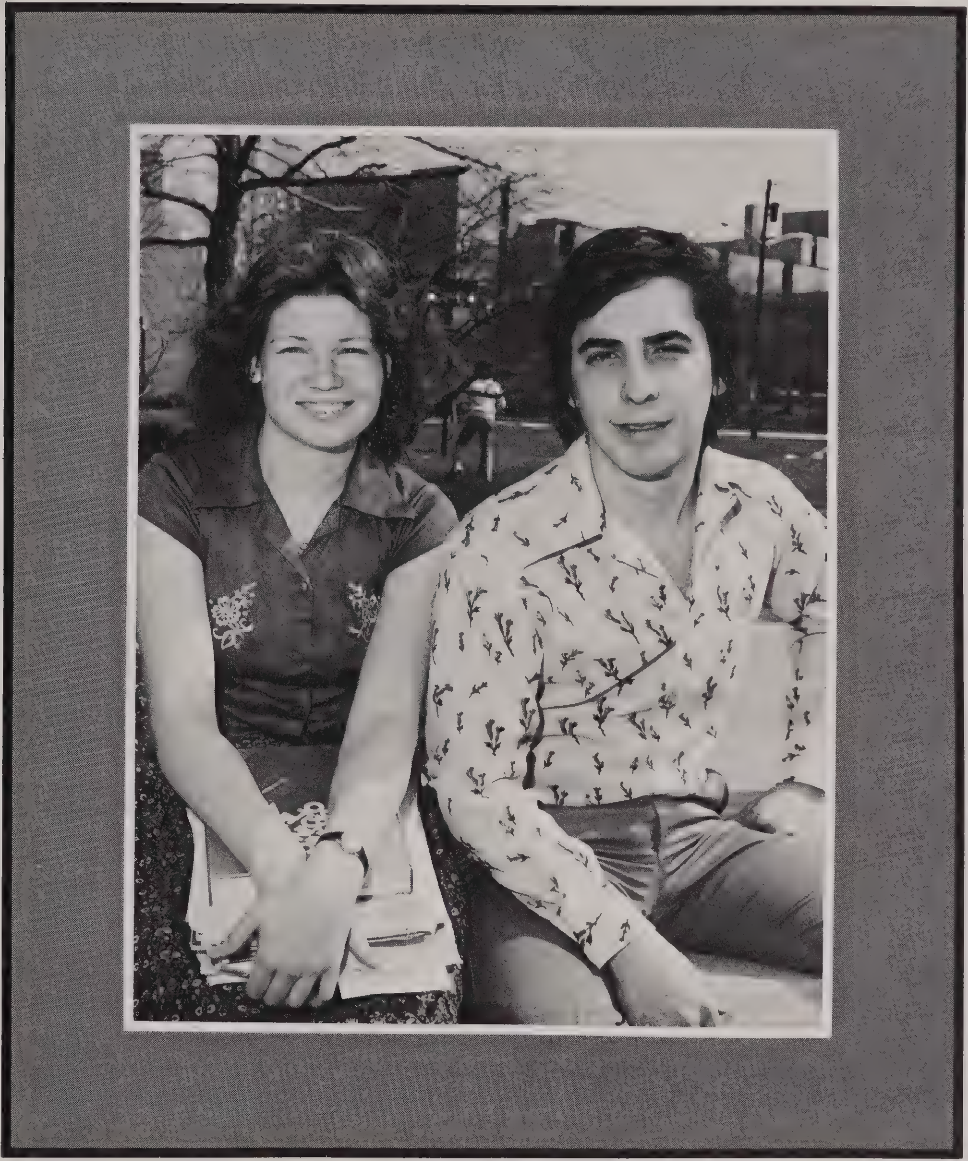
With a quick turn of the tassel, 581 Rutgers students became graduates on May 28, during the school's annual commencement exercises. The rains that had marred past graduations never came, to the relief of the students and 2,500 guests. Senator William Proxmire (D-Wisconsin) delivered the keynote address, discussing the future of American progress and denouncing the escalation of the nuclear arms race.



RUTGERS OUTSTANDING SENIORS — Joanne M. Hermann of Maple Shade and James C. Harper of Haddonfield were named the graduating woman and man who best exemplify the student image at the Camden campus. Selection of the recipients of the Alumni Association Awards by a seven-member committee of peers was based on scholarship, leadership, participation in campus activities, service to the college, and usefulness in the future. Miss Hermann graduated with a degree in Nursing and plans to attend graduate school after working a few years in her field. Among her accomplishments were Layout Editor and Editor-in-chief of the Mneme, and Student Congress Rep-at-Large. She was also a member of Gamma Tau Chi sorority. Mr. Harper seeks a career in journalism and has a mortgage newspaper in the making. As an undergraduate he served as Features Editor of the Gleaner for 2 years and University Senator of Student Congress. He was also elected to the National Journalistic Honor Society and is a brother of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity. Both Mr. Harper and Miss Hermann appeared in this year's listing of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

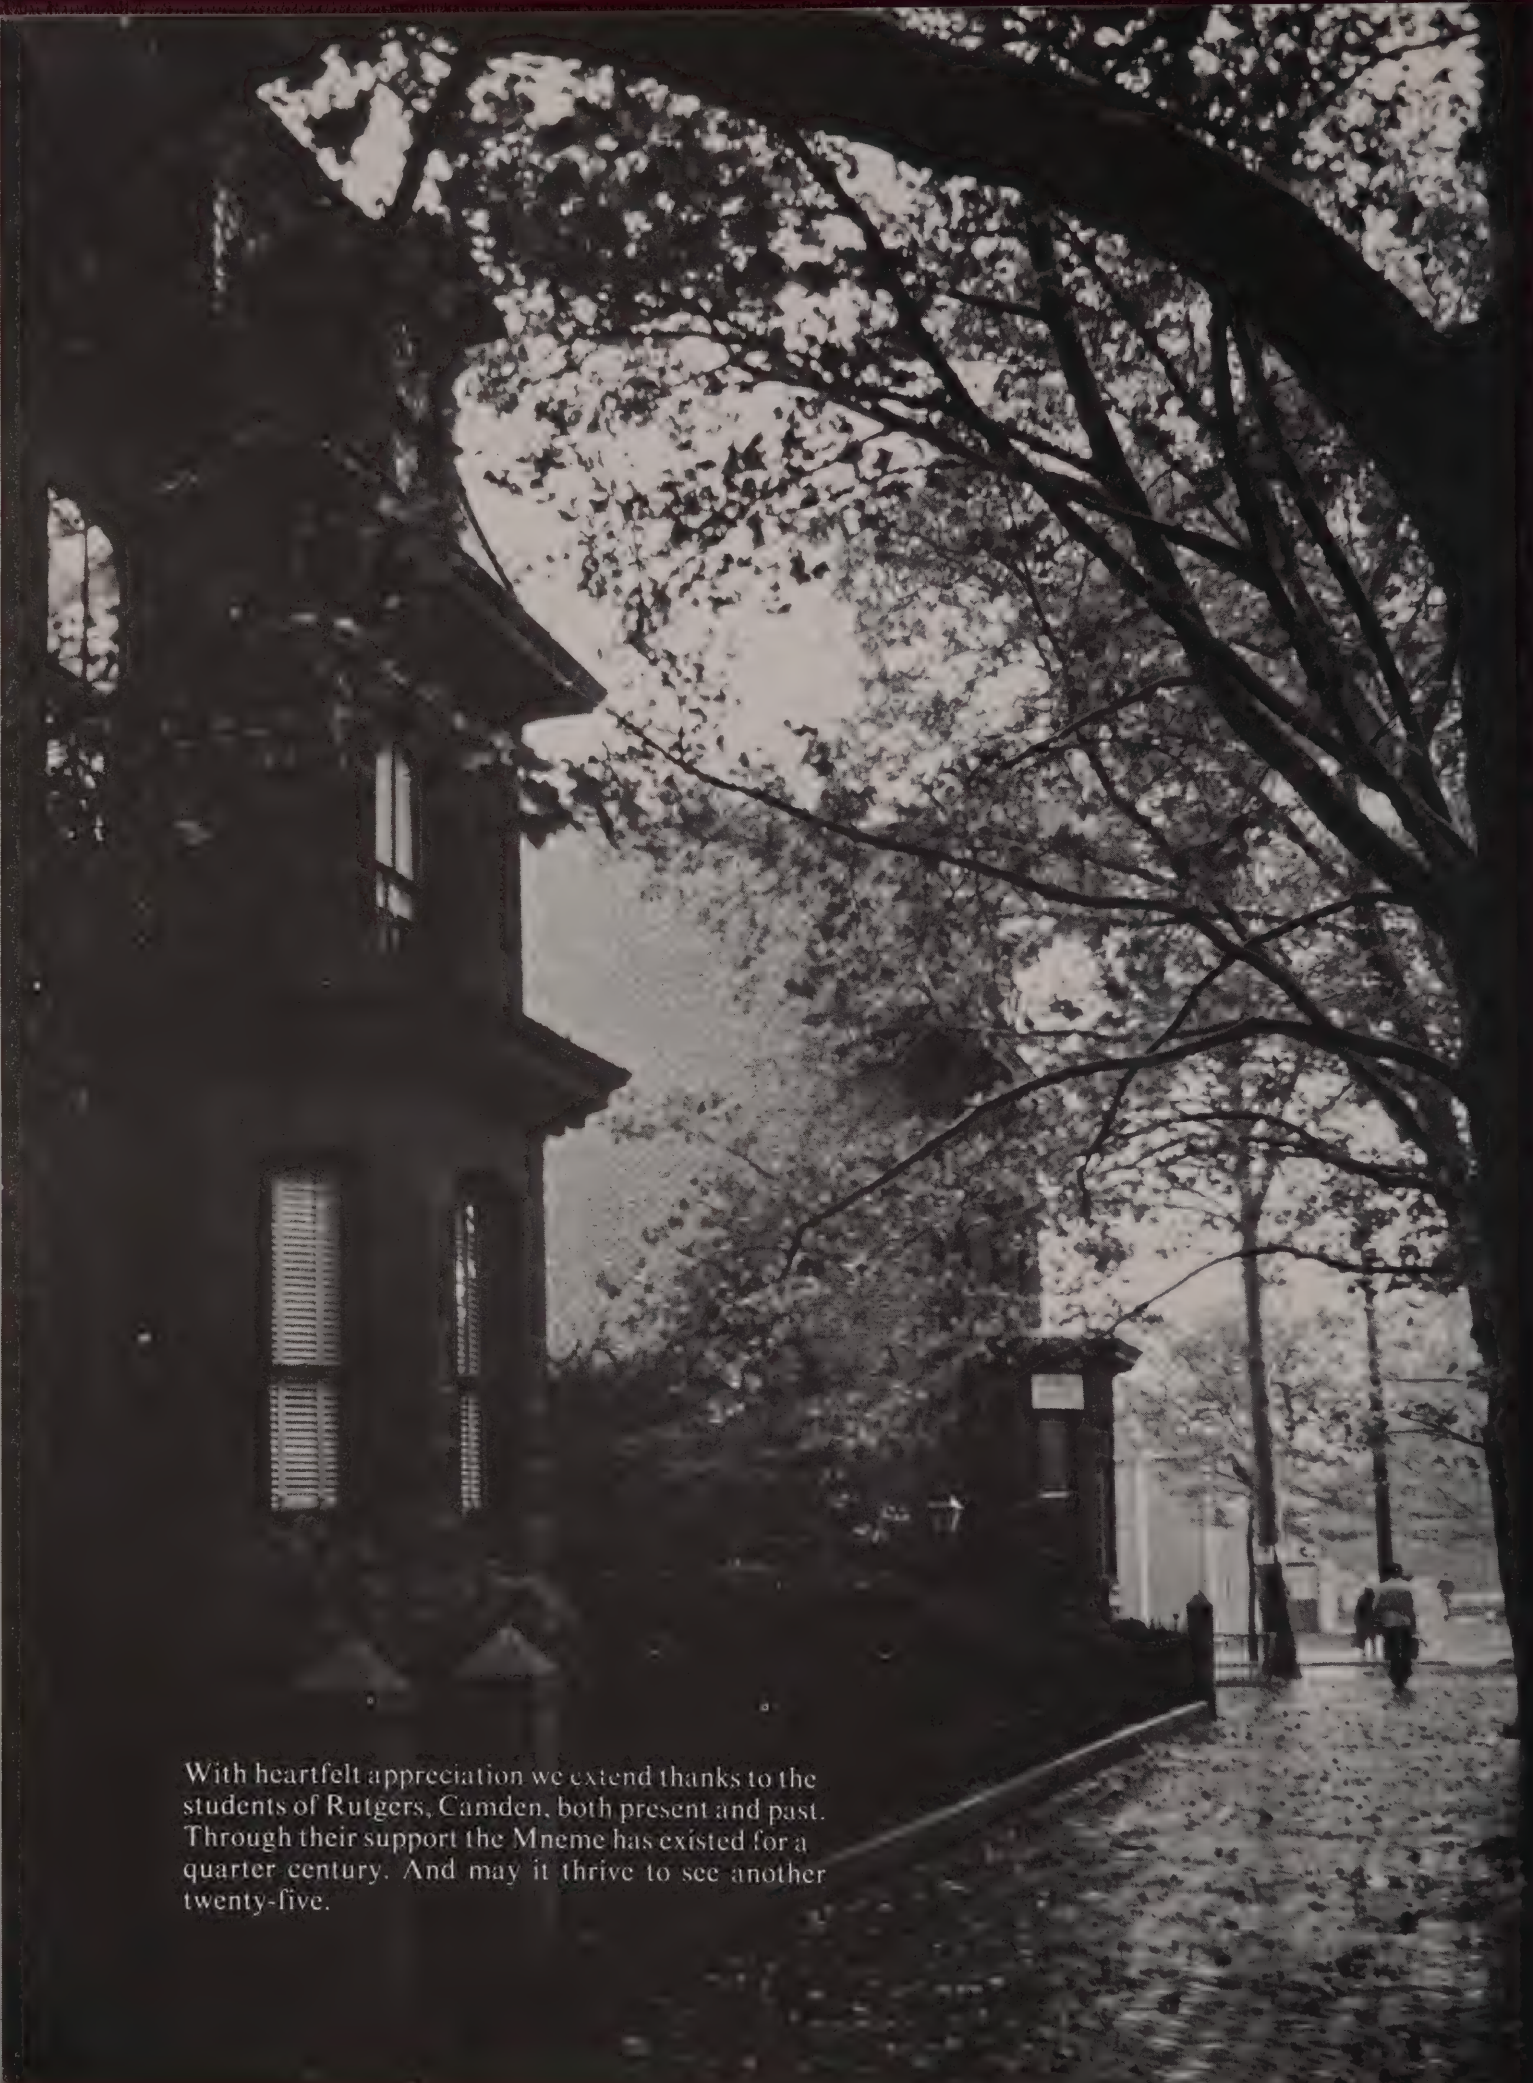
THE COLLEGE CENTER STAFF



With heartfelt appreciation we extend thanks to the students of Rutgers, Camden, both present and past. Through their support the Mneme has existed for a quarter century. And may it thrive to see another twenty-five.
